

Abstract of the Disclosure

SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR CONTROLLING HYDRAULIC FLOW

A method is provided for controlling hydraulic flow through a valve. The method includes determining a pressure drop across the valve and estimating a flow rate through the valve based on the pressure drop and a displacement of the valve. A command signal to actuate the valve is computed based on a desired flow rate and the estimated flow rate through the valve.